"BIG FOUR" REFUSES REQUEST FROM TEUTONS FOR 48-HOUR EXTENSION OF ALLIES' ULTIMATUM

LLOYD GEORGE SENDS BONAR LAW TO PARIS

Chancellor Will be Signatory To The Peace Treaty.

EBERT MAY RESIGN

Message En Route to German Delegation From Weimar.

London, June 23.—(3:00 p. m.)—Chancellor of the exchequer, Bonar Law has been asked by Premier Lloyd George to leave at once for Paris to sign the peace treaty, Reuters News Agency announced this afternoon. This was taken as conclusive evidence that Germany accepts the treaty.

Versailles, June 23.—(3:20 p. m.)—With three hours and a half remaining before the expiration of the allied ultimatum, the secretary of the German peace delegation here had made no announcement at this hour of the receipt of any communication from Weimar, carrying Germany's final decision on the peace treaty.

Versailles, June 23.—(11:00 a. m.)—One of the French officers attached to the German peace delegation here, declared this morning that he understood that a message is en route to the German delegation headquarters from Weimar agreeing to sign the peace without conditions.

London, June 23.—A Central News dispatch from Amsterdam quotes Dr. Dernberg as declaring that the resignation of President Ebert, head of the German republic, is imminent.

FORERUNNER OF HUN PLANS

German Sailors Defiant And Happy Over Sinking of Fleet.

London, June 23.—The act of the German sailors in scuttling their warships in Scapa Flow Saturday is declared by a majority of the British press to be a forerunner of what may be expected from the Germans after peace is signed. The newspapers generally blame the British authorities for not taking the proper precautions. British crews, it is declared, should have been put aboard each German vessel.

A Daily News dispatch from Kirkwall today said that the British first thought a mutiny was in progress Saturday when the Germans started scuttling their ships. Red flags were hoisted from some of the vessels. All of the German sailors were rounded up here under a close guard today, another dispatch reported. The Germans were defiant and apparently very happy over their feat.

Lord Beresford today characterized the sinking of the German fleet as typical of what could be expected. "If we want to see the terms of peace carried out we must use force to insure it," he declared. One of the German officers, after sinking the fleet, came aboard the Victoria wearing his sword, said the Mail today. Another who commanded a division of the interned destroyers said:

"We are not Bolsheviks. Peace was signed today. We had our orders and carried them out."

Germany May Not Send Another Delegation to Versailles, But May Instruct Secretary of Old Party, Who is Now in France, to Sign Treaty.

BULLETIN

London, June 23.—(5:59 p. m.)—It is officially announced that Germany will sign the peace treaty. The announcement was issued from Downing street, the official residence of Premier Lloyd George.

The announcement said that Germany has decided to sign the treaty. The above message was received from the London office of the International News Service at 1:10 (New York time) this afternoon. The allied ultimatum would have expired at 1:50 p. m., New York time.

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.

Paris, June 23.—(11:20 a. m.)—The "Big Four" has just refused a request from the German government for a 48-hour extension of the ultimatum, expiring tonight.

The new German request arrived shortly before 3 o'clock this morning. The allied leaders were summoned to Lloyd George's house and went into conference as soon as all had arrived.

GERMANY'S FINAL MANEUVERS BEFORE SIGNING TREATY ON "DOTTED LINE"

Asked allies to include Germany's denial of war responsibility in the treaty. Request refused. Asked allies to nullify provision for handing over of authors of the war for trial. Request refused. Protested against stripping Germany of her colonies. Protest ignored.

Asked allies to agree to a revision of the treaty by the league of nations within two years. Request refused.

Notified allies that, though she signs the treaty, Germany cannot possibly fulfill its conditions. Notification ignored.

Asked allies at 3 o'clock this morning to grant 48 hours more time. Allies refused request and notified Germany that the armistice ends tonight.

Discussion of the request for delay lasted about one hour.

The Germans alleged that they were unable to reach a final decision with respect to the peace treaty without further time. President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George and Premier Clemenceau found themselves in absolute unanimity in the decision to refuse the request.

It was authoritatively stated that the allied reply was couched in the sharpest terms and again warned the Germans of the consequences if they fail to sign before the expiration of the ultimatum.

The scuttling of the German fleet by German crews at Scapa Flow was accepted as absolute proof of German duplicity and was cited by allied leaders in the morning conference as further reason why no temporizing should be allowed.

A report reached here today that the Germans might not send another peace delegation to Versailles, but would instruct the secretary of the old delegation, who is now at Versailles, to sign the treaty. In conference circles it was declared quite unlikely that the allies would permit any such procedure. It was said that they would adhere to the precedent established during the armistice negotiations, when they flatly refused to negotiate with any second armistice. It is expected that another sharp note of warning will be sent to the German government if a new delegation is named and found not to be representative of the German people.

WEIMAR ASSEMBLY VOTES 237 TO 138 TO ACCEPT DEMANDS

By ALFRED G. ANDERSON.
Weimar, June 23.—(Delayed)—The new German cabinet, headed by Herr Bauer, is committed to signing the peace treaty without condition.

It is significant that the post of minister of colonies was cancelled, Germany losing her colonies by the treaty of peace. Dr. Herman Mueller, the new foreign minister, is not likely to go to Versailles to sign the peace treaty. Instead, it was stated today he will notify Dr. Haniel von Hamhausen, or the German peace delegation at Versailles, to give official notice to the allies that Germany is ready to sign. He will ask that a copy of the treaty be sent to his office in Berlin for signature.

The national assembly voted late this afternoon 237 to 138 to sign the treaty, after Herr Bauer, the new prime minister, had explained the position of the new government in an address, lasting about an hour. Official announcement of the resignation or the peace delegation headed by Count von Brockdorf-Rantzau is expected within a few hours. The assembly met at noon. Premier Bauer mounted the rostrum and began his address amid tense silence.

"This is a moment of life and death under the threatening invasion of the enemy," he said. "I raise for the last time in free Germany a protest against this peace of might and annihilation, a protest against this insult of the principle of self-determination, a protest against this enslaving of the German people, against this new kind of world peace."

He added that the treaty does not lose its annihilating details by the amendments recently made by the allies and told the assembly that it was impracticable to guarantee its fulfillment.

BERLIN ISSUED ORDER TO SINK GERMAN FLEET AT SCAPA FLOW

Report of British Officers Following Investigation.

"FITTING END," REMARK

British Admiralty Charged With Neglect by French Newspapers.

London, June 23.—Many of the Germans concerned in the sinking of their fleet at Scapa Flow are still at large, according to a dispatch to the Star today from Thurso, a small watering place on the north coast of Scotland. A man hunt is being conducted through the surrounding country.

According to the Thurso correspondent, ten thousand Germans had a hand in the fleet's destruction.

Kirkwall, June 23.—Germany's interned battle fleet was sunk as a result of orders from Berlin, according to British naval officers here who have made an investigation of Saturday's scuttling.

New crews recently replaced the skeleton organizations remaining on the German warships. It was learned today. These new crews, according to the British authorities, brought the orders from the German capital which resulted in the sinking of the vessels Saturday.

The British grand fleet today rides at anchor amid the submerged bulk of the German fleet. A few funnels show above the water in some places. "It was a fitting end for the craven fleet," one British officer remarked today.

Paris, June 23.—The British admiralty was openly charged with neglect in permitting the sinking of the German fleet off Scapa Flow, by French newspapers today.

The French papers recalled the fact that France laid claim to the battle cruisers and light cruisers forming part of the interned German fleet, and declared that compensation is due France for their loss.

"Great Britain's responsibility is heavy," declared the Journal. We cannot forget that the British wanted the fleet sunk. An unbelievable accumulation of mistakes make the scuttling possible. Article 23 of the armistice did not preclude the presence of an allied guard aboard these ships. "The allies doubtless will recognize that compensation is due to France," said the Petit Journal. "France must retain the submarines entrusted to her keeping and should receive no blame if she retains a number of other ships."

HIGH MARK FOR HOGS

Cleveland, June 23.—Hogs set a new high record on the Cleveland livestock market today. Heavies and mediums sold up to $20.35, topping the previous market high by 20 cents. Experienced market buyers said it would not be surprising if the market went higher tomorrow. Receipts were liberal today, but demand was stronger.

THE WEATHER

Ohio: Probably showers tonight and Tuesday.

W. Va.: Partly cloudy and warmer tonight and Tuesday.

HERE IS VERY LAST WORD IN STRIKES

London, June 23.—The very last word in strikes has come. Dispatches today stated that the lunatics in the great asylum at Vorarlberg, Austria, had gone on "strikes" for better food and more of it.

The dispatch failed to state whether the inmates would refuse to be crazy any more in case their demands were refused.

ENVOYS AWAIT WORD THAT GERMANY WILL SIGN PEACE TREATY

TORNADO HITS TOWN; 400 ARE BELIEVED DEAD

Fergus Falls, Minn., Lies In Ruins; Soldiers Search For Bodies.

RELIEF IS ON THE WAY

Cyclone Cuts Path Through Business and Residential Districts.

Fargo, N. D., June 25.—Fergus Falls, Minn., lies in ruins today and soldiers are searching the debris for the bodies of hundreds of persons reported to have been killed by the tornado which swept through the town late yesterday. Reports received here early today placed the death list at from 300 to 400. Earlier estimates gave the number of dead as about 200.

Relief trains are on their way to Fergus Falls to aid in the work of caring for the dead and injured and to give assistance to townsfolk whose homes have been demolished. Governor Burnquist, of Minnesota, is in personal charge of the relief work and is expected to reach Fergus Falls today. Members of the sanitary corps, fourth regiment, Minnesota National guard, and a number of doctors, nurses and railway officials are giving aid to the stricken town.

The cyclone wiped out the business section of the city, cutting a path several blocks wide through the center. Most of the larger business buildings were destroyed and many residences were blown down. Among the buildings destroyed was the Grand hotel in which 75 persons are said to have perished when the building collapsed. The Great Northern railroad depot is also reported to have blown down with considerable loss of life.

Passengers aboard Great Northern train No. 1, the Oriental Limited, west bound from Chicago to Seattle, escaped death almost by a miracle when the train was blown from the track 20 miles west of Fergus Falls. Only one person aboard was injured, a girl suffering a sprained ankle. The passengers were taken to Moorehead, Minn., where other trains picked them up. More than 200 passengers were on the train.

Telegraph and telephone wires throughout the entire region swept by the cyclone are down and communication with the stricken district is interrupted.

KNOX TO PRESS HIS MEASURE

Will Not Abandon League Of Nations Resolution.

Washington, June 23.—Senator Knox declared this afternoon that it was not his intention to abandon his resolution calling for consideration of the league of nations by the American people after the conclusion of peace. "Of course, I intend to press my resolution to a vote, but a vote after July 1st will be just as good as a vote now," Knox said.

"The single question raised by the resolution is, as to us, that the league should receive further consideration by the people before the senate advises its inclusion in the treaty. This can be done without delaying peace a moment, and can be accomplished by exchange of diplomatic notes at any time."

"It will be remembered this proposition of separate consideration was presented to the senate Dec. 3, 1918, before the president left for Europe and was pigeon-holed in the committee on foreign relations, then under Democratic control."

Final Reply of Allies to Eleventh Hour Attempt of The Boches For Further Concessions Reaches Weimar.

VERSAILLES READY FOR SIGNING CEREMONY

Despite Feeling of Absolute Confidence That Germans Will Sign, Marshal Foch Prepares to Act.

BULLETIN

Paris, June 23.—Premier Clemenceau, president of the peace conference, has been notified from Weimar that the Germans will sign the peace treaty, it was officially announced this afternoon.

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.

Paris, June 23.—Official notice from the new German government that Germany now accepts the peace treaty and is sending a new delegation to Versailles to sign, is expected to reach here within a few hours.

The final reply of the allies to an eleventh hour attempt by the new German cabinet to win further concessions reached Weimar early today. In a pointed note of less than 150 words, the allies declared they could "accept no qualification or reservation" and called upon the Germans to sign or accept the consequences.

Information reaching here from authoritative sources at Weimar is that the Bauer cabinet is determined to sign the treaty and that the last notes sent to the allies, protesting against fixing responsibility for the war on Germany and against the punishment of the ex-kaiser, were framed in an effort to "save Germany's face."

In anticipation of official word of Germany's decision to sign before the expiration of the allied ultimatum tonight, arrangements were going forward at Versailles for the actual ceremony of signing. The German delegation will be telegraphed here from Weimar and handed to the allies by the secretary of the German peace delegation, who remained at Versailles. President Wilson and other big five leaders are hoping that a new German delegation can reach Versailles in time to sign tomorrow, but it appears more likely that the signatures will be attached on Wednesday or Thursday.

Despite this feeling of absolute confidence that the Germans will sign, Marshal Foch's preparations for the advance into Germany did not relax today and American military headquarters was alive with the activity. The veteran first and second divisions of General Pershing's forces are ready to begin the advance toward Cassel on a moment's notice.

In the notes received from the German government last night and to which the allies immediately dispatched.

ed negative replies, the German government "engages to fulfill the conditions of peace" but adds:

"It (the German republic) desires, however, in this solemn moment to express itself with unreserved clearness in order to meet in advance any accusation of untruthfulness that may now or later be made against Germany. The conditions imposed exceed the measure of that which Germany can in fact perform. The government of the German republic, therefore, feels itself bound to announce that it makes all reservations and declines all responsibility as regards the consequences which may be threatened against Germany, when, as is bound to happen, the impossibility of carrying out the conditions comes to light, even though German capacity to fulfill is stretched to the utmost."

The German government then follows with a statement refusing to recognize Germany's sole responsibility for the war and declining to recognize the right of the allies to impose burdens upon her on the score of responsibility. It further declares it impossible for a German "to reconcile it with his dignity and honor to accept and execute articles 227 to 230 by which Germany is required to give up to the allied and associated powers for trial individuals among the German people who are accused by the allied and associated powers for the breach of international law for committing acts contrary to the customs of war."

The German government also protests against the taking away of her colonial possessions "and against the reasons given therefor, which permanently deny to Germany fitness for colonial activity."

The German government, the note adds, "believes itself to be entitled to address the following modest request to the allied and associated governments in the expectation that the allied and associated governments will consider the following declaration as an integral part of the treaty:

"Within two years, counting from the day when the treaty is signed, the allied and associated governments will submit the present treaty to the high council of the powers as constituted by the league of nations, according to article four, for the purpose of subsequent examination."

Before this high council the German plenipotentiaries are to enjoy the same rights and privileges as the representatives of the other contracting powers of the present treaty. This council shall decide in regard to those conditions of the present treaty which impairs the rights of self-determination of the German people and also in regard to the stipulation whereby the free economic development of Germany on a footing of equal rights is impeded."

"The government of the German republic accordingly gives the declaration of its consent as required by the note of June 16, 1919, in the following form:

"The government of the German republic is ready to sign the treaty of peace without, however, recognizing thereby that the German people was the author of the war and responsibility for delivering persons in accordance with articles 227 to 230 of the treaty of peace."

WEIMAR ASSEMBLY

A vote of confidence in his ministry, and the vote in favor of signing the treaty followed the address. There was no lengthy discussion.

The resolution in favor of signing the treaty carried no reservations, but some of the delegates voting "yes" afterwards declared they understood the resolution meant that the cabinet was empowered by the resolution to make its acceptance of the treaty conditional. The opponents of the treaty declared the framers of the resolution deliberately omitted all conditions and stipulations in order to win the votes of the Independent Socialists, who probably would have refused to sign any resolution that did not declare for a signature without condition.

Premier Bauer read to the assembly a copy of the note sent to the allies, protesting against the treaty clauses placing responsibility for the war on Germany and calling for the punishment of the former kaiser.

"The government of Germany, through its representatives, is ready to sign the peace treaty without thereby acknowledging that the German people originated the war and without agreeing to articles 227 to 230," the note said.

Dr. Bell, who was first asked to become a member of the new ministry without portfolio, was later assigned to the post of minister of national communication. He will wind up the affairs of the colonial office.

AID CLUB IN WINNING GAMES

Two Wellsville boys, playing with the Follansbee independent baseball club, are materially aiding that club in maintaining its winning streak. Carl and John Morgan have regular places on the West Virginia club. The former is catching, while the latter has a permanent berth as pitcher.

In a fast game at Follansbee Saturday the Follansbee club defeated the Washington Giants by the score of 7 to 2. The famous colored team was outclassed from the beginning to the end of the contest. Follansbee took the lead in the first inning and held it until the grand finale. Patterson, pitching for the colored tossers, was knocked off the mound in the sixth inning, giving way to Sledge, who was also well hammered. W. Johnston, first baseman for the visiting club, played an excellent game. Karboski, for the Follansbee nine, hurled a steady game. Carl Morgan caught his offerings in first-class shape. The score:

Giants	000	002	000	—2
Follansbee	100	102	210	—7

Batteries—Follansbee, Karboski and C. Morgan; Giants, Patterson, Sledge and Powell.

BIG LABOR DAY PARADE HERE

The street parade and celebration to be staged here on Monday, Sept. 1, Labor day, will surpass any event of a like nature ever held in the city previously, assert members of the local Trades and Labor Council who are now making preliminary plans for the affair.

The final details for the celebration will be completed at a joint meeting of representatives of each of the labor unions in the city at a later date. Trades and Labor Council has asked the various labor organizations in the city to name committees to attend the conference.

It is probable that the September celebration will take the form of a joint affair, combining the Labor day parade with a homecoming for returned service men. All discharged soldiers, sailors and marines will be asked to join in the parade in uniform.

The committee from Trades and Labor Council is composed of H. E. Schults, L. L. Stoffell and J. V. Weaver. Local No. 495, Carpenters and Joiners, has appointed Harry Keorn as representative from that body to attend the coming meet.

"There's a Reason"

Danger Lurks In Summer Foods For Babies

EVERY mother knows the evil effects of summer heat on cow's milk. This danger is equally great to all foods unless carefully kept in a cool place away from insects.

Bad food loses its nourishing value. It causes constipation and diarrhea. These are at best always prevalent in the summer time. They depress the mind and weaken the body, and may cause more serious illness.

The first precaution is to see that the stools are regular and normal. In the case of babies and children, if less than twice a day you may suspect constipation; if more than three times a day, diarrhea. A remedy is then needed that will regulate and tone the bowels, and you will find none safer and better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that millions of mothers constantly have in the house for just such purposes.

A bottle of Syrup Pepsin can be bought at any drug store for 50c and $1, the latter the family size. A free trial bottle can be had by sending your address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 480 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Wm. S. Hart plays the role of a crook of the underworld life in the infamous Barbary Coast of Old San Francisco in "The Poppy Girl's Husband," the Artcraft photoplay which opens a three-day engagement at the Ceramic theater today. Probably no tougher nor more bizarre place has ever existed than this same Barbary Coast as it once was, and inasmuch as the picture was directed by Thos. J. Ince and Hart himself, the audience is assured of a faithful portrayal of this life. Naturally a story laid in such a setting teems with action and thrills.

THE TWO GREATEST REPUBLICS.

There are two United States, both of them in this hemisphere—the United States of America and the United States of Brazil. They may be called the two greatest republics in the world. The U. S. A. has more people than any other republic. The U. S. B. has more territory.

Brazil's area is actually larger than that of continental United States. Its population is only about one-fourth of ours. On account of that comparatively small population, however, its vast resources are all the more impressive. It has the largest of rivers, and the largest stretch of fairly uniform land.

Potentially it may be the richest country in the world. Its soil is incalculably fertile. There is abundant rainfall in most parts. It is such tropical regions as that along the Amazon which, some scientists say, are destined eventually to feed the world, when the earth's population has outgrown the food-producing possibilities of the temperate zones.

These considerations, and many more, are suggested by the visit of Dr. Epitacio Pessoa, president-elect of Brazil, to the United States. All Americans—or North Americans, as the Brazilians prefer to call us—should welcome such a visit and appreciate the honor of it no less than the Brazilians, some years ago, welcomed and appreciated the visit of one of our most distinguished ex-presidents to their country.

The world has moved since Theodore Roosevelt went hunting game and rivers in Brazil. A big war has been fought and won. As allies, these two republics have drawn closer. There has come about a thorough friendship and understanding. It is pleasant to have Dr. Pessoa as the nation's guest, to show him the hearty good will felt toward his country, and to have a chance to sweep away the lies about the United States of America that mischievous enemies have been trying to sow in Brazil.

GOVERNOR LOWDEN'S ADVICE.

When Chicago gave its big "welcome home" reception to Illinois' heroic returning soldiers recently the Chicago Women's Club was the "official hostess" of the occasion. Governor Frank Lowden's address of welcome to these returning citizens developed later into sound advice to the newly enfranchised women citizens, with an unexpectedly frank admission of the failure of the men to use their privilege to the highest degree.

Said Governor Lowden: "If the women of America, instead of regarding the franchise simply a privilege, will regard it as a sacred duty and go to the polls as surely and earnestly when primary and election days come as these men in uniform responded to their country's call, their use of the franchise will surpass in benefit to the state the use which men have made of the franchise in the past."

"The word that I wish to leave today is not that it is the greatest of all privileges—though it is—but that it is the most solemn of all duties which rest upon the citizen."

"What I mean is this: In ordinary elections only a small percentage of the men have gone to the primaries or have gone to the polls unless superhuman efforts were made to drag them out. I want to confess to you now—I don't know that I have ever done it before—that we men have not made such a very tremendous success of our franchise in the past. Let not the women be guilty of the same apathy."

WOMEN EAGER FOR CITIZENSHIP.

"It is hard to say which (men or women) seemed more eager to learn," Miss Mary B. Foran says of her citizenship classes in Rockdale, Ill. "It was deeply regretted by both students and teachers when we closed."

The Rockdale school for the foreign born is the result of a concerted effort on the part of the Naturalization Bureau of the Department of Labor and many other agencies, and its success is an argument for such unified effort. Rockdale is a suburb of Joliet, Ill., an industrial city of which almost a third of the population is foreign born. Almost every race on the globe is represented in Joliet. The necessity in such a case for a training in American citizenship is obvious. It is true that classes for foreigners have been maintained in Joliet since the Bureau of Naturalization first established the union between the federal government and the local public school systems, which is today transforming the alien population of this country into loyal citizens. But recently the unified effort of many different agencies has secured most inspiring results.

The reason for this success is that Joliet's public-spirited men and women have united with the federal government in a definite, concrete, practical program. The aim has been: To establish classes in the public schools for the citizenship education of the foreign born; to get those who should have this instruction into the classes; to have subject matter and methods the best possible for the purpose; to make the school life a center of real social life where various nationalities might be at one with each other and with the native Americans. There is no way of making citizens out of aliens other than this.

EMPTY NESTS.

The enterprising pigeon fancier who would like to turn an honest penny should ship some of his fancy stock to Belgium and France.

In all of the territory occupied by the Germans these birds have entirely disappeared. They were either eaten or stolen by the rapacious Hun.

As high as $90 a pair is being paid for extra fine birds, but even at such rates the lofts are not being filled.

It has been said a good many times that the Germans overlooked nothing which could be destroyed or stolen, and the empty pigeon lofts bear witness to another detail of their greed.

A good many fine birds have been contributed by generous fanciers in this country, and one can well imagine with what a sensation of assured peace, of quiet comfort and home restored, the inhabitants of these ravaged towns of France and Belgium will hear once more the soft cooing of the pigeons in their lofts.

NEW YORK LETTER

By O. O. McIN TYRE.

New York, June 23.—Thoughts while telephoning from booth in a busy Broadway hotel lobby: Elsie Janis just back from France all tanned up. What's her real name? Beerbrun or Bierbohm. What's that awful buzz. Sinclair Lewis in the next booth. Great name his home town has. Sauk Center, Wisconsin. Busy nothing. Clear that wire, please. Dammit!

Burleson ought to rent this booth and give a reception for his friends. That Boston doctor who opposed baths ought to get the small boy vote. Reminds me. Famous actress bathes only once a month. Told about it one time at a wine party. Ruined her career. Supes in the movies over at Ft. Lee.

Why that stupid click-click-click! Rupert Hughes out of his major's uniform. I'm going to insult the next old stock salesman. Believe I'll paper my den with worthless stocks I've bought. Jazzy idea, that! I've told this female imbecile six times that I want Bryant 16666. My collar's gone. Speaking of collars I hear the model for the Lyndeckers' collar pictures is going to marry a New Rochelle society girl.

Wrong connection! She's doing this for spite. Funny looking little ties they wear with dinner jackets. Look like shoe strings. Mugsy McGraw must live in this hotel. Hear New York is going to have a big new morning newspaper. That newstand girl is easy to look at. They always cop a millionaire and alimony and are happy ever afterward.

Where does this girl get that stuff? Busy! Ought to get the manager. Another long shot won yesterday. Frank O'Malley of the Sun. Suppose he's going to interview a celebrity. He's a papa now. Busy nothing. Go to. Gotta treat 'em rough. Funny about Webster holding a straight against Briggs' royal. Some action, I'll say. And Jean Knott trailing along with two pairs. There she goes again. Talk about your rotten service. I'll never get to that dinner. It was going to be free too. She'll give me back my nickel or I'll make a scene.

Small towns are not the only spots on earth that have the professional Smart Alecks. They are to be found at every amusement place in Manhattan. But especially at Coney Island. The other evening a big roller coaster car was getting ready for a particularly big dip on the scenic railway. A young man in a snappy suit and plaid cap suddenly stood up on a seat, flicked his cigarette, made some facetious quip and attempted to step into a car going in the opposite direction on the adjoining track. At the hospital they say he will be out and well again by fall.

Chic Sale tells of a Smart Aleck in a small western town. Nobody could get ahead of him. He was there with an answer back on every occasion. One day a crowd of horseshoe players were pitching horseshoes outside the window of the village hotel. In a second floor room was an eastern novelist who had come to the town for quiet to write. Finally he stuck his head out the window and shouted: "Say, you Hicks! Can that chatter. Beat it." They stopped, looked at each other and finally one said: "Go get Ed." Ed was the professional Smart Aleck and he was soon on the spot.

The game was resumed and the players became noisier than ever. At length the exasperated writer again stuck his head out the window and this time was vehement. The crowd waited, and one whispered, "Get him Ed."

Ed stepped out, shook back his hair, looked up and yelled "Go comb your hair!"

Latest effusions from Tin Pan Alley that they are singing on Broadway: Aloha, Little French Mother, Good-bye! Midnight Down in Dixie, Heart Breaking Baby Doll, Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree, and Norma.

LAUNCH HOME BUILDING PUSH

Sheriff Armour S. Cooper at New Cumberland has launched out in a "Own Your Own Home" campaign, and under the support of the chamber of commerce at the county seat has sent out the following to encourage home building:

"There is a widespread movement over the United States, urging every one as far as possible to own their own home. 'Almost every person in Newell knows that there is a great need for more owners in this community and how much we feel and realize this need at the present time. This condition creates a great opportunity for many persons to help build up our town. The first essential necessity before we can own our homes is to secure a lot or parcel of land to build on and before there can be many lots purchased and much building done it will be necessary for the owners of vacant real estate in the town, if in acreage to lay it out in lots, then put the lots on the market at a reasonable price and on such terms that will induce people to buy, and when a person saves money out of their earnings and buy a lot they generally will build on it."

"Let the people know that you have lots for sale. If you do not care to place your money in a real estate agent's hands, go to the newspaper and advertise your own signature that you have a lot for sale. Also put a 'For Sale' sign on your lots and by all means put your lots on the market, and get your going a going."

"Did you ever count up the amount of taxes you have paid on your vacant property, and then figure the amount of interest you would have earned if you had sold your vacant lots years ago. Count it up and you will be surprised."

"May we suggest to those who do not yet own their own homes to begin now to save and buy a lot, and when you have paid for it to the loan company and they will lend you enough money to assist you in building a house. You can pay the loan off almost like rent and at the end of a few years your loan will be paid off and you will own your own home."

"The more home owners the better the community. A home owner has a greater interest in the welfare and advancement of the town. He will improve and beautify his surroundings."

"Owning a home makes far better and greater usefulness of the individual. A town of many home owners will be better socially and religiously, a good place to live and the more home owners, the less bolshevism, anarchy and disloyalty."

"Then in order to help our town and community let us encourage people to buy lots and build homes. The responsibility falls very largely on those of us who own vacant lots and real estate to try and get it into the hands of individual owners who want to build homes."

"Let us get busy at once and put our lots on the market at reasonable prices and thereby encourage home building and we will not only be helping our town and community, but will be helping people to get homes that otherwise would not get them, and thus do a great service to our fellow men."

prices and thereby encourage home building and we will not only be helping our town and community, but will be helping people to get homes that otherwise would not get them, and thus do a great service to our fellow men."

PLAN RECEPTION FOR HOME-COMING YANKEES

Newell's welcome home to the soldiers of the community is to be next Sunday evening in the First Presbyterian church, and plans for the celebration are now being made.

All but a few of the soldiers from Newell community have returned and it is anticipated that those who are planning to return will have reached home by the last of this week. Several young men who were working in Newell when the war started have already been mustered out of service will not return here.

An appropriate sermon is to be delivered at the homecoming by Rev. Herman Hosack and special music will be given. The memory of the only boy from Newell who died in army service is to be honored.

WELLSBURG DEFEATS NEWELL; SCORE 4 TO 0

Despite the several reverses that have faced the Newell baseball team this season, the winnings have put confidence in the players and the fans continue to rally to the team in increasing numbers. Lack of a suitable home diamond and the fact that the team has played most of its games away from home have caused some slackness in support.

Wellsburg defeated Newell Saturday afternoon 4 to 0 at Wellsburg. Jackson pitched for Newell and it was his best game this year. He allowed Wellsburg but four hits.

The next game is Saturday at Forlanabee and on July 19 the Newell nine will return to Wellsburg.

Re-Elected Superintendent.

Prof. A. D. Osborne has been again named as superintendent of the Newell school and the schools in Grant district. Last week he was granted a life teaching certificate by the Ohio board of examiners.

GOING DOWN HILL OF ILL HEALTH VERY RAPIDLY

But Her Downward Progress Was Stopped by a Single Bottle of Nerv-Worth.

This remarkable statement was made a short time ago to the Nerv-Worth druggist at Uniontown, Pa.: Wade H. Guyton—For several years I have been in a very nervous condition. I did not have the nerve force to properly digest my food and it would ferment and gas formed in my stomach and so badly interfered with my heart action that it would flutter and intermit. Was going down fast and losing strength and weight. Was very uneasy about my condition and could not sleep.

I purchased one bottle of Nerv-Worth from you and after using it as directed I am a changed woman. All the troubles mentioned have disappeared and am getting strength and weight and am happy to be able to make this statement. Nerv-Worth certainly is a wonderful medicine.

New Magic With Old Clothes

Lillian Whiting Describes the Interesting Discoveries and the Humanitarian Service of Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Which Show That Certain Efforts Started by the War May Have an Important Part in Peace.

Here Are Examples of Made-Over Clothes for Which Material Was Furnished by All Sorts of Discarded Elements.

By Lillian Whiting

DESTITUTION and suffering among the French and Belgium refugees did not cease with the ending of the war. Realizing this fact, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh of Washington intends to continue, for at least five years longer, the remarkable order of relief work in which she has been engaged. This work, which is so unique in its nature, was largely originated by Mrs. Walsh. It is also of a nature very suggestive to women who have to exercise great economic ability in helping to provide for their own families. For, like all work that relates itself to the practical benefits of life, it has grown into larger phases than its originator could foresee. More adequately to realize its scope one must know something of the remarkable personality of Mrs. Walsh.

A Happy Inspiration

Mrs. Walsh passed the winter of 1917-18 in New York, devoting herself to the opera, music and drama. While she was contributing generously to war needs in various ways, the idea of personal service had not occurred to her. Finding that the Red Cross was anxious to have Fisher's famous picture of the Red Cross nurse lithographed for sale, she paid for this work, and its wide sale brought in more than $200,000 to the Red Cross funds.

Suddenly the idea and ideal of her present work came to her, and on returning to her Washington home in the spring she entered upon it. It was nothing less than the manufacture of clothing for the destitute women and children of France and Belgium.

Mrs. Walsh's project involved an entirely new phase that gives it special claim to attention, inasmuch as that which she is doing for the destitute can be done by every woman in her own household to the greatest advantage. This is simply the conservation of material; the transformation of cast-off clothing of all kinds, and of scraps and fragments hitherto thrown away into useful and comfortable garments. Mrs. Walsh sends out circulars with the following appeal:

"Send old stockings,
Send old shirts,
Send old suits, and Send old skirts."

The long arms of discarded kid gloves are utilized as lining for aviators' jackets; they are singularly impervious to cold as well as flexible and soft. Men's discarded shirts of silk or cotton make dresses for children of 4 years. Women's stockings cut into full length strips and pieced together make the most perfect "sweaters," for sizes for infants up to that for children of a dozen years.

The Magic of Ingenuity

Fragments of silk, brocade, velvet and manufacturers' samples make hoods for old women. These hoods are all lined and warm, and so pretty that the society girls of Washington laughingly beg them for motor uses. Coats, with caps to match, for little boys and girls are made from merchants' samples, the "swatches," of heavy, soft woollens, in plaids of rose and blue and white, making really beautiful garments.

There are shoulder wraps for convalescent soldiers, ingeniously made to fasten without sleeves which might be impossible for a wounded man to get into, and they have hoods that can be drawn up when the man is wheeled into the open air.

It is hardly possible to convey an idea of this work in its variety and extent to those who have not seen it. For instance, take the plaid coat for a little lad. The Countess Ishii, the charming Japanese Ambassador, sent over a billiard table cover of the deep green invariably used, which was being removed to make room for a new one. Mrs. Walsh procured the black and white checked woollen material and lined the coat with the green billiard cloth, allowing the pinked edge of the green to be seen as the finish to the triple capes lined with it.

Another friend sent a red curtain that had been used on a houseboat. It was redyed in a plant that Mrs. Walsh had placed in her basement and made effective as the brilliant border of bed coverings.

One of the leading hotels in Washington donated a mass of worn bed blankets which Mrs. Walsh had dyed a dark blue. These were made into saques, warm and lined, with fancy collars constructed out of some other scraps.

The skirt and the "bloomers" of a dress for a little girl were made of stocking-legs. These garments have the same warmth and flexibility of jersey material.

When Mme. Jussierand, the French Ambassador, accompanied the presidential party to France, on the first trip, she took with her large quantities of the completed garments personally daughter—these and many other noted women of social life give constant help.

When Mrs. Robert Barrett Browning, the daughter-in-law of the poet, first learned of Mrs. Walsh's work, she exclaimed: "Absolute genius! Only genius could do it."

Vice-President Marshall wrote in a letter, dated Dec. 27, 1918: "I have kept in touch with the various benevolences of the war, all of which have been splendid, but the work being done by Mrs. Walsh is little less than miraculous. Turning her palatial home into a workshop, she has designed garments for the destitute women and children of France and Belgium in such masses that I should be ashamed to attempt to give the numbers, lest I should not be believed. . . . She gives her health, her wealth, her rare capability to it."

to distribute among many people she had formerly known and who have become impoverished by the war.

Mrs. Wilson was very much interested in Mrs. Walsh's work and before her departure with the President she invited Mrs. Walsh to the White House to talk over the enterprise.

Hundreds of garments a month are prepared for the destitute sufferers. Aside from contributions of cast-off clothing and other material, Mrs. Walsh purchases bales of goods for this use.

The Walsh home in Washington, which is surrounded by large grounds and was built for entertaining, was designed after a French chateau. The interior has a grand staircase, surmounted by the square hall continuing to the roof, four floors above, the rooms all opening on galleries, which on sunny days are filled with a play of colors from the roof of stained glass.

Mrs. Walsh employs a staff of sewing-women. "Society" women and girls who drop in daily take up this or that piece of work and help. Mrs. Thomas Bayard, the widow of the well-remembered statesman; Mrs. Norman Williams; the Japanese, the French and the Italian ambassadors; Mrs. Lawrence Townsend and her

THE CONFESSIONS OF A TIN HAT

By J. Ferguson Blayney

JUST a few days before the Fourth of July—I know, because I can see the calendar below me on his sister's desk. I've been billeted on this nail for quite a few days now and I must say I'm quite comfortably situated. Next to his head, it's the best observation post I've struck, but I can't help thinking how different it all is from last year—last Fourth of July, which was the first day he wore me. I was a rookie then—and now I'm a veteran.

Of course I was given to him back here in the States, with the rest of his overseas equipment. I often wonder how I happened to be singled out from among the thousands of my tin brothers, to help protect the pluckiest, cheerfulest boy in the whole army.

Well, as I was saying, last Fourth of July I made my first public appearance. We had been training, for several weeks, in a camp in the southern part of France, near Bordeaux, and on Independence Day his outfit was among those picked for a parade in that city. I don't remember that he seemed particularly overjoyed at the thought of parading, but I was, because it meant the beginning of my career. Until I heard the news of that parade, I had been led to believe my chief function in the A. E. F. was to be "inspected." I'll never forget that day in Bordeaux. When the band struck up and we first swung down the avenue, there wasn't much enthusiasm—not as much as we'd expected, but when they broke into the second tune, a French march, the crowds went wild. Only once since have I witnessed such an excited throng of onlookers and I can tell you, it was a thrilling moment, for us tin derbies, just out of the bandbox, as you might say. Three days later we were at "the front" and my real work began.

It was during those first few days of real business that he began to talk to me. One evening he was squatting on the floor of his dugout. The mail hadn't caught up with us yet—there wasn't anything to do as it was dark and lights were defendu. He held me in his hand and looked at me thoughtfully. "It's her birthday, tonight, Lizzie," he said slowly, and scarcely above a whisper so the other fellows wouldn't hear. "I wonder if she's thinking of me?" I smiled to myself—he said he "wondered," but he really never doubted for a minute that she was. That was the first time he called me "Lizzie," too, but he never told me why. I noticed in the months that followed that he only spoke to me when he was particularly blue or homesick.

He wrote dandy letters home. Of course from my vantage point I could see everything. He had two kinds of letters: The ones he wrote to mother and sister and those he wrote to her. For instance, in the first kind he would close like this: "Don't worry about me, mother dear, 'cause I'm as safe as any one over here and when I come home I'll tell you how much I've missed you"—or—"Your letters are fine, sis, keep up the good work. Lots of love to all"—but to her—well he'd just say something different. I liked her letters best!

Yes, I had my thrills. Lots of them. That hole in my brim?—Oh that's just a little souvenir of the night he was nipped. He'd gone with the liaison officer to the infantry as the N. C. O., although he was a private at the time, and was sent back to the commanding officer—(a little matter of about five miles)—with a message. The last mile of his way lay across open fields and as the moon was shining he could be plainly seen by Jerry. He didn't seem to realize this, however, until machine-gun bullets began to fall within a couple of feet of him all around. He made a dive for a shell hole about five yards away but just as he reached it, one of them made that hole in my brim, grazed his cheek and sank into his shoulder. You see, it's a trick of Jerry's to turn a machine gun on one man, like that.

My boy lay very still and I guess Jerry thought he'd "bumped him off," for he stopped firing in our direction. Luckily for me, I stuck tight when he fell. If I hadn't I probably never would have been home with him now, even though his name was printed on my chin strap. No one would have thought to pick me up with him any more than they'd think of picking up a lady's handkerchief in a railroad accident.

Somehow, he managed to get back with that message. When they took him to the hospital a while later his wound proved to be a slight one and after a few days, we returned to his outfit. That was a happy day for me after hanging in a musty cubby hole with the rest of his things, not knowing from one day to the next whether or not he'd been sent to a base.

I have a rather confused recollection of the next couple of months. We had long marches, during which I hung fastened to his left shoulder most of the time. A lot of the other fellows threw away their tin hats—didn't want to be bothered with them on hikes and took chances of picking up others at the next front, but my boy kept me and I did my best to be of service to him. When they'd stop for 10-minute rests along the road, it was rather awkward sitting down with the pack on his back because it was so long it would push up into his neck and be most uncomfortable, so he discovered that by turning me upside down and sitting on me the pack would hang over the edge of my brim. Sometimes he used me as a pillow. He'd spread a folded up blanket on the ground, put me, right side up, under one end and with another blanket over him and his head on me he used to say he could sleep "till the war's over"—and in those days to say, "till the war's over" seemed like saying, "till the world comes to an end."

But, oh that wonderful day!—the 11th of November! We'd just come through the hardest "push" of the whole war—at least, what we saw of it—and to have the tension let down so unexpectedly—well! I thought my boy had gone mad. He whirled me into the air again and again shouting, "La guerre est fin!" Once he kicked me so hard—I have the dent in my crown yet. I thought he was angry with me, at first, but when I saw all the other boys doing the same things, I realized it must be just some queer way boys have of expressing great joy. I was glad, for once in my life, that I had no feelings. After dark they built a huge bonfire—it was great!—and the night before not even the light on the tip of a cigarette had been seen anywhere.

Then came our last hike together—down the great, broad avenue of his home city. He wore his little O. D. cap but I was fastened to his left shoulder just as I had been so many times when he tramped the roads of France. It was great to hear the people shouting their welcome to the boys and to see their happy, excited faces, but I couldn't help feeling a bit sober, knowing that it was the last time I'd ever hike with him. However, just as his company was ordered to break ranks, something happened. Some one broke through the crowd on the curb and rushed toward him—some one very young and adorable, with fluffy light hair. I didn't look to see what happened next. I didn't think it was fair to look just then but I heard him say one word—"Dearest!"—and then I knew it was she!

Last night, as he passed the desk he gave me a friendly tap and said, "Well, Lizzie, she and I are going to be married next Friday." He looked around to see if any one could hear, then continued, "I s'pose it's silly and sentimental, but I'm going to see that you're stuck in some corner of that room so you can see that wedding. After what we've been through together it just wouldn't seem right not to have you in at the finish. How about it, old pal?"—and if I'd had a heart, it would have stopped beating that moment for pure joy.

SELECTION OF REFEREE STILL GRAND PUZZLE

Two Fighters Can Arrive at No Agreement on Third Man In Ring.

HAVE LITTLE TIME YET

Boxing Commission Submits List of Names, But Still No Decision.

By FRANK G. MENKE.
Toledo, June 23.—A deadlock exists at the present writing over the selection of a referee for the Jess Willard-Jack Dempsey fight on July 4th. And until the third man is named big betting on the clash will be in status quo. Tex Rickard's dream that passing the job along to the National Boxing Commission was the solution of the problem now seems to have developed into a nightmare of worry. It is all because the noble athletes so far have been utterly unable to agree on the same man.

A list of approximately a dozen names was submitted to Rickard and the fighters by the commission which intimated at the time its willingness to O. K. the acceptance of any man of that group. Willard is said to favor some of the commission's nominees, Dempsey does likewise. But up to the present moment both have failed to place the stamp of approval on any one individual. And now it looks as if the battling over the "third man" question, so far veiled in inexplicable secrecy may break out into an open clash so that all the world may learn the ways and whereabouts.

Major Anthony J. Draxel Biddle, president of the National Boxing Commission, planned last week to arrive here today. He hoped that prior to his advent the warriors would settle upon the man. But from the most authoritative source—a member of the commission—comes this information: "No settlement whatsoever has been reached up to now over the refereeing matter and the parties concerned show no indication of reaching an early agreement. Some are rather nasty about it."

The original articles provided that the fighters were to name the referee about two weeks before the date of the contest. Failing to do so, the task was to be passed along to Rickard—a job that it is assumed Rickard was not at all keen about tackling. Apparently the warriors, in preliminary discussion of the question, convinced other folks most concerned that they were not in any agreeing mood and might squabble indefinitely over the matter.

Then it was, undoubtedly, that Rickard conceived the thought of letting the National Boxing Commission do the work. On June 10 he wrote asking the organization if it would accept the task. On June 13 it accepted and just about that time sent along to Rickard and the fighters a list of names embracing the most famous fight referees in America. The fighters were to agree on one man from that group.

It is more than a week since that list arrived, yet the fighters haven't come to any agreement. W. A. Gavin, a member of the commission, came

TAGGING THE BASES

The Yanks have no respect for titles. The fact that the Red Sox are world's champions did not stop Huggins' men from mauling them and jumping back into first place.

Ernie Shore, erstwhile Red Sox, gave up but five hits to Boston. Duffy Lewis, ditto, made a home run. Sad day for Ed Barrow.

The Dodgers rolled over, jumped through and performed many other stunts at the command of Jim Vaughn. So the Cubs had a good day.

Before leaving Chicago Uncle W. W. W. team said good bye to Lee Magee, who was left with Fred Mitchell in exchange of Pete Kilduff.

Greasy Neal slammed out a double in the tenth inning at Cincinnati when Babe Benton wasn't looking; and 21,000 Redland fans went home rejoicing. The Giants are on the way home.

Austin Gedeon and Tobin, aided and abetted by Pitcher Uble of the Indians, delivered the hits that gave the Browns a victory at Cleveland. Sothorn pitched a shut-out.

The Athletics went wild with the bats at Washington, getting 16 hits off Shaw, Craft and Ayres. Nelson won his game easily.

Doc Lavan tried to complete a double play and heaved into the grand stand in the game between the Pirates and Cardinals, to the sorrow of the Cardinals.

Weaver, Jackson and Rieders kicked a game away for the White Sox at Detroit.

Roger Peckinpaugh, thanks to four hits collected in four times at bat in Sunday's game against Boston, is leading the American league in clubbing today. Cravath is still setting the pace in the National.

nore a few days ago and made efforts to adjust things, but in vain. It seems that just as soon as Willard approves a man the Dempsey crowd vetoes him and Willard returns the compliment by doing vice versa.

Just whose names are on the commission's list is a deep secret. But if those of Ed Smith of Chicago, Bill Brown of New York, Billy Roca of Philadelphia, Jim Griffin of California and Walter C. Kelly of Buffalo are included, it's a cinch they won't officiate. Smith and Roca have announced that they wouldn't take the job. Kelly is objectionable to Willard and Rickard has voiced disapproval of both Griffin and Brown.

Meanwhile, Uble Pecord is being touted as a sure thing. It's all because of the understanding in these parts when Rickard got the permit to stage the fight here he agreed to operate wholly under Toledo boxing commission rules. They provide that only its official referee, Pecord, shall officiate at contests within this municipality. Rickard, however, denies that he made any promise to the commission that he would jam Pecord into the job and declares that he went along to Rickard and the fighters a list of names embracing the most famous fight referees in America. The fighters were to agree on one man from that group.

It is more than a week since that list arrived, yet the fighters haven't come to any agreement. W. A. Gavin, a member of the commission, came

WHEN JESS HOLDS OPEN HOUSE IN THE HOTEL LOBBY

By N. E. BROWN.

Toledo, O., June 23.—(Special.)—Toledoans and visitors to the city see very little of Jack Dempsey, although the Overland club, where he is training for his coming battle with Champion Jess Willard, is only about five miles from the heart of the city. Jack sticks close to his camp and spends his spare time swimming or playing cards or chatting with his associates. But Big Jess shows up in town every day and his favorite stopping place is on one of the huge lounges in the lobby of the Secor hotel. He lolls at one end of the lounge and chats with acquaintances and friends of theirs from noon until time to go out to his training camp for his afternoon workout. And he's talkative, too, during these sessions. He tells snatches of his early life—of roping wild horses and hunting game. He discusses some of his fights and talks a little about his coming bill.

It's a great opportunity for folks who know the champ to bring up other folks who want to know him—just to be able to say they met him and shook hands with him. One thing that is making Willard more popular daily is the pleasant manner in which he greets these strangers and answers their barrage of queries.

Tex Rickard, the man behind the fight, is in and out of the hotel while in Toledo and stops once in a while for a few words with Willard. This gives the bugs another eye feast. Monahan, Hemple and Willard's other sparring mates come in for their share of notice when they appear.

Ike Dorgan, publicity man and general aide to the promoters, is always on the job, too, ready to boost things along. Picture men hob in and out. There are about 70 newspaper men from different branches of the journalists game now anchored in Toledo, and they have plenty of stuff to buzz Willard and the others about. All in all, Willard's daily visit is the biggest event of the day in the heart of Toledo's business district.

PIRATES SHOW SCRAPPY SPIRIT

The pre-season belief of local fans that the Pittsburgh club was to be the dark horse in the National league pennant race this season is being strengthened every day by the splendid performances of the fast-stepping Pirates.

Besides showing that they have the players of the right calibre to make a fight of it with any team in the National circuit, the Buccos have also shown that they have the grit and backbone that goes with a championship makeup. No club in either of the big circuits have worked under as great a handicap as the Corsairs since the opening of the season, in the way of injuries and sickness to players. But with it all they kept their heads up and fought the game, uphill fight of champions that has won them the admiration of the baseball world and kept them up among the leaders in the National league pennant race.

With such stars as Carey, Southworth, Schmidt, Mayer and Sailer (half of the Pirate's regular line-up) out of the game all at the same time, and out for weeks, most clubs would have curled up and given up the race; but Bezdek's boys are of a different breed, and instead of giving up in despair, the little remnant of regulars girded up their loins and worked harder than ever, with the result that they held the line steady until the regulars got back on the job again. Since when time the Pirates' performances have been the best in either circuit. Starting their first real home stay at Forbes Field on June 5th against Eastern clubs, they broke even with the New York Giants, made a clean sweep of their four-game series with the Brooklyn club, one of the strongest clubs in the league, and also cleaned the decks clear in the three-game series with the Phillies, and have compiled the best record of any of the Western clubs against Eastern teams in the latter's first invasion of the West.

New York, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Chicago are all bunched now in a hot fight for first place, the west having three representatives in the honor class as against the eastern's lone entry of the Giants.

Fortunately for local fans the two Fourth of July games at Forbes Field—morning and afternoon—will be between the Pirates and the Chicago Cubs. With the Pirates showing up as one of the strongest entries in the National league race, and the Cubs sporting such stars as Alexander, Vaughn, Tyler, Douglas, Killifer, Hollocher, et al. the two Independence Day games should produce some of the most thrilling ball ever seen at Forbes Field.

Out-of-town patrons will be taken care of as usual, and may secure good seats in advance for these games by mail by sending a check or money order to the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, for seats. Box seats are $1.40 each, and reserved seats $1.10 each, which includes the U. S. war tax. The morning game will begin at 10:30 and the afternoon game at 3:30 o'clock. After the series with the Cubs the Pirates play but one more game at home—a single game with the St. Louis club and will then be away for almost three weeks on their second invasion of the East. The Pittsburgh club management expects to effect arrangements that enable them to report the progress of the Willard-Dempsey fight during the afternoon game.

MORE RED BLOOD AND STEADIER NERVES FOR RUN DOWN PEOPLE

The World Demands Strong, Vigorous,
Keen-Minded, Men and Women

It has been said of Americans that they work their habits overtime. Many become nervous and inefficient by overwork. By worry, despondency, social affairs, robbing brain and body of needed rest; excessive use of tobacco, indulgence in strong alcoholic drink—excesses of every kind that burn up the vital powers so necessary in these trying times to make both men and women fit to be of help to themselves and others.

It is time to be temperate in all things. The man or woman with impaired nerves caused by impoverished blood lacks vigor, the ambition, the endurance and the keen mind of those who avoid excesses.

Timidity, despondency, fear, trembling hands, want of confidence and even cowardliness, are due in a large measure to abused nerves.

People with plenty of red blood corpuscles and strong, healthy nerves have no desire to shirk work and lean on others for guidance and support. There is hardly a more-battered man or woman (unless of an organic disease) in American today who cannot become alert and clear in mind; vigorous and energetic in body in a very few weeks and at trifling cost.

To become strong and ambitious, to feel that work is not drudgery; to have steady nerves, abundance of red blood and power of endurance; to be not only a man but as men now go, a superman, you must take seven tablets of Bio-feren every day for seven days—and take them faithfully.

Two after each meal and one at bedtime and after seven days take one only after meal until the supply is exhausted. Then if you feel that any claim made in this special notice is untrue—if your nerves are not twice as steady as before; if you do not feel ambitious, more vigorous and keen-minded, the pharmacist who dispensed the tablets to you will gladly hand you back just what you paid for them.

Bio-feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, run-down, weak, anemic men and women over offered direct through druggists and is not at all expensive. Carnahan's Pharmacy F. W. Herche and all other druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

Big Feature of Auto Derby

Uniontown, Pa., June 23.—Announcement was made today by the management of the Uniontown Speedway that a professional motorcycle racing event to determine the American championship will be held at the Uniontown Speedway on July 19, in connection with the mid-summer automobile racing championship events. The big motorcycle event will be an invitation affair and will be open for professional drivers only.

The cycle championship event already has aroused much interest among the manufacturers and fans who witnessed the motorcycle feature of one of last year's programs have been persistently urging the Speedway management to include the motorcycle in the racing program. The Hendee Manufacturing Company, realizing the value of Speedway testing, has installed a testing ground at the Uniontown oval and already have made some important mechanical observations as a result of the high speed tests on the big planked oval.

The July 19 program at Uniontown is in connection with the Welcome Home celebration for Uniontown's returned service men and several thousand soldiers, sailors and marines will be guests of the Speedway management for the all-day program being arranged at the Speedway grounds.

Youngstown — Thomas Philbin, who, while a member of the Youngstown police force, is charged with having killed John Ellis after a drunken quarrel, is being tried on the charge of manslaughter.

Russell Conwell Johnson, better known as "Jing", pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, was married last week to Miss Mary Seiz, a school teacher at Montclair, Pa. After taking this important step Jingling Johnson pitched in a game against the Browns and got credit for the victory of his team.

Kid Gleason is quoted as praising Dick Kerr with qualifications. The Kid says Kerr has everything but height, that he is three inches shy of what a real honest to goodness pitcher should be. Well, the Kid ought to know, being short himself and having been a pitcher, but how would he like such a "compliment" paid him?

Joe Wood declared a year or so ago that he never would pitch another game. Now, however, he has had a change of heart and has volunteered to take his turn in the box if Manager Phil thinks he can make it. Joe avers he can't do much worse than some of the other Cleveland pitchers.

Manager Jimmy Burke sent Pitcher Dave Davenport home after the lanky Texas had lost his game in Philadelphia. Burke is quoted as saying that Davenport will get another chance if he gets in shape. The opinion of most followers of the Browns is that Dave has had too many chances already for the good of the team.

Hancuff is Hammered Hard By Libertys, Giving Up 12 Blows.

The winning streak of the Liberty A. C. was continued Sunday afternoon, the locals defeating the McLean Rubber Club by the score of 11 to 3 at West End park.

The McLean club registered the first tally in the initial inning following which they failed to reach around the circuit again until the seventh when they shoved two across. The Liberty's tallied four in the first frame and held their opponents to a standstill until the conclusion of the engagement. Mizner of the winners hurled a good game, striking out eleven opposing stickmen. Hancuff's offerings were well liked by the downtown club and he was batted hard and frequently. The Libertys will play again at Columbian park next Friday afternoon.

Charles Freeman First American to Claim Heavyweight Title

While Jess Willard looms up as the biggest fighter of modern times he can't claim the honor of being the heaviest man the game has produced by a long shot.

Clarence Freeman, the first American to claim the world's heavyweight championship, stood seven feet three inches tall in the proverbial stocking feet and he tipped the scale at the modest figure of 333 pounds. The records fall to show any other man connected with the boxing game who compares with Freeman.

Despite his great size he was very quick and could run and do "flips" with the rest of the athletes.

He was born some place in Michigan back in 1820. When he grew up he traveled with a circus and became known as the "American Giant." It was while touring the states with his show that Ben Caunt, an English showman and himself a noted heavyweight fighter, saw Freeman.

Caunt showed clever judgment in signing up to manage Freeman instead of arranging to tackle him. Caunt took the giant to England and sought to match him with the leading English fighters. They were all anxious to see some one else tackle him.

Finally he bobbed William Perry, known as the "Tipton Slasher," who offered to take on Freeman. It looked like suicide for Perry. When the pair entered the ring Perry was outweighed by 125 pounds. He was little more than six feet tall. The fight took place between Tipton and London. It started December 8, 1842, and to the surprise of all it took Freeman 109 rounds to gain a decision. The men fought seventy rounds the first day and twelve days later finished the bout, battling 31 rounds more, until Perry was disqualified for deliberately dropping to the floor to get out of the way of one of Freeman's pile driver blows.

That was in the days of bare knuckles, too, and the punishment the men gave and received would shock a modern ring crowd to death. Freeman claimed the world's championship after that contest, but his fame was short lived. According to records of the day he died about two years later as the result of fast living.

The fact that Perry, outweighed 125 pounds, gave Freeman such a terrific battle will give the fans who argue that Willard's size is no great advantage new hope for their use.

Short Sports

One source of jubilation among the Yankees is that they have busted Bernie Boland's hoodoo. Boland had lost but one game to the Yanks in all the time he had been in the American league until he went up against them last week, when they beat him again. Now the Yanks think they can beat any pitcher.

Kid Gleason is quoted as saying that Eddie Cicotte has everything that a pitcher should have. Other clubs will agree and add that he has something that no pitcher should be allowed to have. But what it is remains a dark secret. And yet, if it is mysterious, why is it that players leaving the White Sox for other clubs don't tip it off and make the information general?

Connie Mack trade off Bobby Roth? Then where would the Athletics be? The work of Roth is a feature in most every game won by the A's. On June 9, his bat won a game from Cleveland. On June 10 he beat the Browns, when he tripled with the bases full. And so on and so on. Roth certainly is a bad actor under the Mackian system of handling them—bad for the opposing teams.

Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees, has claimed Pitcher Willie Mitchell from Detroit on waivers, not waiting for Willie to be sent to a minor league club, from which he could get him for a knock-down price, as in the case of Al Wickland, outfielder, who was waived out, then sent to St. Paul by Boston and purchased from the St. Paul club by the economical Huggins.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Says an inside bath, before breakfast fast helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Sparkling and vivacious—merry, are assured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be inbright, alert—a good, clear skin and a natural, rosy, healthy complexion due to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls, with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nervy wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fer-mentations and poisons, thus cleansing sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, pasty breath, rheumatism, colds and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

Asks Change of Venue.
Dayton, June 23.—Ed. Scheidt, alias Blackburn, of Covington, Ky., recently acquitted here of a first degree murder charge, now facing two indictments for highway robbery and ring leader in three desperate attempts at wholesale jail delivery here, has asked for a change of venue. When the jury freed him of the murder charge, Criminal Judge Patterson declared the finding the "most gross miscarriage of justice in his experience." Scheidt is accused of two robberies at West Carrollton, Ohio. In one case, it is said he locked the store proprietor in the ice box. He is kept in the dungeon at the county jail, since his attempted escapes.

Claims Wife Stole Child.
Akron, June 23.—In his petition for divorce, Robert F. Ball, of Ravenna and Akron, accuses his wife, Eva, of stealing their child while he was with the A. E. F. in France. Ball says he left the child with his parents at Ravenna, after the defendant had abandoned it. Ball also accuses the wife of enlisting the aid of several strange men to accomplish her ends.

Machinists Call Strike.
Martins Ferry, June 23.—Demanding 86 cents an hour instead of 68 cents as is being paid at present, Baltimore and Ohio machinists are out on a strike at Benwood and Bridgeport. More than 250 men are affected in the two shops.

Delaware, June 23.—By order of the board of trustees of Ohio Wesleyan University, war certificates have been issued to thirty former students who went to the Spanish American war in '98.

The Cash Value of Carefulness

Suppose you had a dollar and insured it for seventy-five cents?
Then got careless and lost the dollar—you only recover seventy-five cents.

Same on your property if it burns. You get your insurance, but there is always a big money difference between what you owned and what you get.

The difference is what careful-ness pays you. But if your house burns, it is a dead, uninsured loss which your carelessness costs you.
The Hartford Fire Prevention

fires. Let us explain it.

Mayor Frank Webster, aged 73, of Salem, was found dead in bed Sunday at Bluffton, Ind., where he was visiting, according to a telegram received Sunday afternoon by his son, K. L. Webster of Salem.

Mayor Webster, who was a veteran of the Civil war, had attended the G. A. R. encampment at Lima last week. En route home he stopped in Bluffton to visit a comrade named Williamson. When he left Salem he was apparently in good health.

He was a retired railroad worker. Three years ago he was a candidate for county commissioner, but with drew from the race. He had not completed his first term as mayor of Salem.

He leaves one son, K. L. Webster of Salem; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Judd of Cleveland and Mrs. Rosanna Townsend of Salem and one brother, Cassius Webster of Day City, Mich. The body is expected to arrive in Salem today.

CHARLOTTE WALKER IS STAR IN STRAND FILM

A cast which could scarcely be improved on will be seen in the Bacon-Backer special six part feature, "Men" which is to be presented at the Strand theatre today and Tuesday. Charlotte Walker, famous for her splendid work on the legitimate stage and in pictures, played a most sympathetic part while another of equal opportunity is portrayed by Anna Lehr, the actress with the most beautiful eyes in motion pictures.

Gertrude McCoy who has been starred in numerous features, has the part of a young woman adopted when a child by wealthy parents, and Willette Kershaw, the distinguished stage actress, is cast in a difficult character.

The leading role—that of a "heavy"—is assumed by Robert Cain a player of finesse and splendid presence. As a wealthy member of New York society, Mr. Cain has a splendid chance to represent what an unscrupulous and not over scrupulous New York clubman may do where women are concerned.

Bradley Barker and Huntley Gordon in the character of a society chap who follows his profession of civil en-

WOMAN'S DAY AT COLUMBUS

Columbus, June 23.—July 24 has been set apart as Woman's day at the centenary exposition at Columbus, Ohio. The two greatest organizations of the church, the Woman's Foreign Missionary society and the Woman's Home Missionary society will join in a general program.

The committee in charge consists of Miss Carrie Barge of Delaware, O.;

engineering, appear in congenial endeavors and make the most of numerous opportunities which the author, Harry S. Sheldon, has supplied.

The direction of "Men," which was performed by Perry Vekroff, reflects discriminating taste and a fine understanding of the possibilities of a dramatic story. As a whole, "Men" is one of these pictures decidedly out of the ordinary.

Mrs. W. H. Goode of Sidney, O.; Mrs. O. N. Townsend of Zanesville; Mrs. C. C. Miller of Lancaster; Mrs. A. M. Courteney, Westerville; Mrs. C. R. Havighurst and Mrs. F. A. Selis, Columbus.

Mrs. Selis is grand marshal of the parade and will be assisted by ten marshals and 200 hostesses from Columbus and adjacent towns. The assistant marshals are Mrs. T. H. Campbell, Mrs. A. M. Dodd, Mrs. A. A. Dole, Mrs. Z. V. Luke, Mrs. J. L. Hyde, Mrs. Anna Treadway, Mrs. J. F. Voke, Mrs. B. C. Waltermire, Miss Edith C. Williamson, all of Columbus, and Mrs. C. Lady of Zanesville.

There will be a large tent at the exposition grounds for a special program for women and children. Charts, publications, pictures and maps that represent the work of the two mission societies will be exhibited in this tent.

Springfield—Dr. J. A. Ness of Whittemberg college has a Black Orpington hen and she crowed one morning this week. Dr. Ness takes this as an omen that woman's suffrage will be accepted by every state in the union.
